

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

A. Conclusions

This research was purpose to describe students' difficulties in writing an essay of the second semester English students at IKIP PGRI Pontianak. This research has one research questions, namely what are the difficulties of second semester English students at IKIP PGRI Pontianak in writing an essay, the answer was found in the results of research obtained through data collected through student essays. From research finding concluded that the students have difficulty in writing an essay. Based on the results of the analysis of essays written by students, most mistakes in grammar and mechanics were found, and there were also form mistakes.

B. Suggestions

The following are some suggestions related to the results of this thesis, the suggestions are:

1. For Students

Students must learn from the mistakes and difficulties they experience to help them practice writing well and correctly. They have to practice more and motivate themselves in learning English especially writing.

2. For Lecturer

The researcher hopes that, after knowing the results of this thesis, the teacher pays more attention to the types of difficulties that experienced by students in writing an essay. Because one of the objectives of learning to write essay is that students can write it properly.

3. For Other Researchers

Hopefully the researcher can inspire further researchers to conduct further research on students' difficulties in writing an essay or essay related to other topics in enriching existing research.